

cheese and potato dumplings, james peeled and chopped the potatoes, and added the eggs - yummy.

Keep up the amazing work everyone!

Handwritten practice on lined paper:

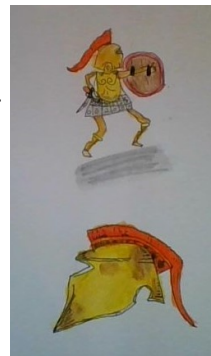

Row 1: A series of connected 'w' or 'v' shapes.

Row 2: A series of connected 'V' shapes.

Row 3: The words "Violen" and "Erie" written in cursive.

A short but busy week - we have an international team member now as Nana posted her Spartan Soldier's helmet on Seesaw all the way from Japan. We look forward to welcoming Nana properly into Lower Dart once lockdown is over. The Spartan soldier pictures were amazing - well done to everyone who did one and sorry they can't all go in the newsletter but I have shared Willow's as a really good example. I saw some funny hairdo's on Seesaw this morning, thank you for giving me a little giggle and we are still waiting for Mabel the goat to have her kid! Watch out Lower Darters for a brand new story starting today and also for a family dance challenge coming your way. Have a lovely weekend, we look forward to seeing you all next week. Mrs Rolls

A hand-drawn illustration of a Red-winged Blackbird (Agelaius phoeniceus) perched on a thin branch. The bird has a black head and back, a bright red patch on its shoulder, and a yellowish-orange breast.

Today Upper Dart have been party planners, finding out all about VE day and the celebrations that took

This week in Upper Dart we have been investigating: why the sea is salty, why things glow in the dark and how to make lava. We also began making art from pebbles. Below are pictures of Fin's pebble art and Tay's volcano. Well done Upper Dart, you've produced some brilliant work this week!

Mrs Reynolds